

LIVE WEBINAR November 13, 2019 – 2:30 to 3:30pm EST | Preventing Fractures in Long-Term Care Homes

Speaker: Caitlin McArthur, MScPT PhD | Postdoctoral Fellow

Fractures, or broken bones, can decrease residents' mobility and quality of life. The Fracture Risk Scale can help decide if a resident is at high risk for a fracture in the next year. By knowing if you are at a high risk, you can put strategies into place to help prevent a fracture from happening. This webinar will describe what the Fracture Risk Scale is, how to use it to decide if you are at high risk or not, and what strategies can be put into place to prevent fractures.

OARC's Education Team on the Move!

The fall season has been a busy time of travel, learning and sharing for the OARC Education team!

OARC's Home Support Facilitator Melissa McVie connected with Residents' Council groups at two LTC homes in Toronto on September 26th.

At Extendicare Bayview, Melissa focussed education efforts on highlighting the role of resident leaders in the home and worked alongside the Council leadership team to formalize their governance structure and update Bylaws.

Melissa was later welcomed as a guest at the Residents' Council meeting at Carefree Lodge (City of Toronto), where she observed Council President, Elizabeth in action, opening and closing a very full and quality-driven meeting with the click of a wooden gavel (pictured above).

October Board Meeting: Minister Fullerton and Health Human Resource Panel Discussion

OARC's October 24th Board meeting was opened to some very special guests! The Honourable Merrilee Fullerton, Minister of Long-Term Care and representatives from long-term care Associations and organizations joined us for a day of sharing and learning. Minister Fullerton shared her vision of long-term care. "Long-term care must be about continuing to live", said Minister Fullerton. Addressing our Board, the Minister noted that, "It is a whole different thing to walk in someone else's shoes (a resident), we can try, we can't fully know what that is like, we can try, and that's why it is so important to have groups like yours." Minister Fullerton shared her views regarding the Public Inquiry recommendations, including efforts made by our Ministry to move many forward within the coming few months. She expressed her desire to work with sector partners in taking action and building meaningful relationships that will create a climate for change. She answered pointed questions about the PSW shortage, acknowledging that it would be foolish to build 15,000 new beds without a plan to recruit and support the team members needed for those additional resources.

Heather Graham, Group Facilitator

Our discussion panel focused on human health resources in long-term care and was started with a compassionate plea for more staffing support from an RPN, and former PSW, Susan Marcelo Uy who reminded us of the stress, the lack of time and resources is having on long-term care residents and team members. "We need more time..." Ms. Marcelo Uy said. Susan noted that team members are generally very well intentioned, want to do excellent work, and want to be person centred, however the way the schedules and work loads exist currently, team members (especially PSWs) are set up for failure. Relationship building takes time. It involves spending a few minutes with each resident, focusing on what makes each person unique and building team members' capacity to be equipped and trained to help residents work through anxieties, unknown processes, loneliness and isolation, especially those who are living with cognitive changes and therefore responsive behaviours.

OARC and the panel worked together to share their organization's research, advocacy and lived experience regarding the human resource crisis, a situation that is affecting health care organizations globally. Working with the group, Heather Graham from Heather Graham Consulting, facilitated an exercise to identify areas where our organizations can potentially work together to maximize our efforts to contribute to educating, recruiting and retaining front line staff. The results of our work together will be brought forward to the next meeting of the group in November. We look forward to continued collaborative discussion, aligning our common goals and leveraging our respective resources to make a difference in solving some of the systemic issues the long-term care sector faces, including the PSW shortage. Thank you to our guests who arrived with energy, thoughtfulness and a willingness to engage in difficult conversations with a view to improving the experience for those who live AND work in long-term care.
