

A detailed black and white line drawing of a floral mandala. The design is symmetrical and features a central circle containing the text "Residents' Council Week". This central circle is surrounded by several concentric layers of intricate patterns, including stylized leaves, small flowers, and geometric shapes. The outermost layer consists of larger, more complex floral motifs, some with spiral centers, and a decorative border of small flowers and leaves. The overall style is reminiscent of traditional Indian or Middle Eastern mandala art.
