What does meaningful resident engagement really look like in a long-term care (LTC) home?

Residents bring important perspectives, shaped by their unique strengths and experiences, and have consistently expressed a desire to be meaningfully involved in planning, problem solving, and decision-making in their homes. Co-designed with residents, the Ontario Association of Residents' Councils (OARC) has developed a new resource to address this need.

Everything About Residents Involves Residents: A Co-Designed Toolkit Inspiring Resident Engagement in Long-Term Care Homes is an evidence-informed toolkit that offers a practical roadmap to meaningful collaboration between residents and LTC home leadership.

Informed by direct feedback from LTC home Administrators and Executive Directors, and filled with real home examples, tips and guides, this toolkit inspires new ways of thinking and doing with residents, with a focus on LTC home operations.
