Joan Devine

Joan Devine was born in Chicago, Illinois, and currently lives in St. Louis, Missouri with her husband of 43 years. She is the proud mother of two daughters and has nine incredible grandchildren.

Joan holds a B.A. in Music Education/Music Therapy, a B.S. in Nursing and a Masters in Management Her experience in healthcare spans over 35 years, starting out as an Activity Director, with most of her career in leadership positions in both long-term and acute care. As Joan has supported nursing and clinical services, she has worked to incorporate person-centered care practices into her work.

In 2016, Joan joined the Pioneer Network, a national organization whose mission is to empower a network of senior living and care communities by fostering person-directed practices and environments. In her role as the Director of Education, Joan leads the development and implementation of educational programming for the organization, including the annual conference which for the past 2 years have been virtual.

Joan is an Eden Educator, Mentor, and Guide, and has had the privilege of speaking for state, national and international organizations including Pioneer Network; American Association of Medical Directors (AMDA); LeadingAge; American Health Care Association; Schlegel-UW Research Institute for Aging (Walk With Me); Capitol Care in Edmonton Alberta Canada; and The Eden Alternative. Joan has been published in a variety of long-term care trade magazines, including Caring for the Ages (AMDA), McKnight's Long-Term Care, and she is the author of the book "Word of the Week: Creating a Culture Change Dictionary."

It was through Joan's affiliation with Pioneer Network that she was first introduced to OARC, and through her friendship with David Kent that she came to see the incredible work of the organization. Joan hopes to be able to bring her passion and perhaps a different perspective to the Board based on her experiences in the US and to help promote the mutual commitment to person-centered care and envisioning a new culture for aging services.
